Solutions

We deliver our best, every time

Project Based Solutions

Comp Consults specializes in providing enterprise development solutions from requirements gathering and analysis to design, implementation and testing. The Comp Consults systems development methodology ensures quality and minimizes risk in every stage of the project life cycle. Comp Consults uses industry established Software Development Process and our innovative technology solutions are guided by our expertise in business change management to assure that our customers are prepared for a new technical solution.

QA Practice

Comp Consults has rich experience in building and testing IT solutions, helped in formulating a dedicated QA practice to address the functional and non-functional testing needs of client systems. The functional testing sub-practice of the QA practice focuses on architecting, designing, planning, managing and executing test cases for IT systems / solutions / products. The testing types we deal with include Unit, Component, System, Integration and Regression.

The non-functional testing, this practice is primarily focused on designing and executing load, stress and volume tests for mission critical and high compute-intensive applications. The practice also focuses on providing applications tuning / optimization recommendations that help in improving the systems performance and thereby high end-user satisfaction and reduced IT infrastructure costs.
